

Possability

But what does a support professional do?

At Possability, we want you to support people with disability to be active in their day-to-day lives as much as possible.

Using Active Support principles, you'll encourage active participation by looking for opportunities in every moment, providing just the right amount of support at the right time and seeking opportunities for the person to have choice and control.

That means you'll actively engage with the person to undertake fun, social and necessary daily activities.

Your day will be a mix of working with the person to engage in social and recreational activities, participate in daily personal care and household activities and maintain their health and wellbeing.

Life's full of possibilities

We support people with disability in their home, at work and in the community.

Possability

Our people.

We believe in something bigger, and so do our people.

They're passionate, skilled and share our values. They come from different backgrounds and work together to make our organisation rich and vibrant, promoting equity, freedom and independence.

Life-changing connections.

We value life experience, a positive attitude, innovation, creativity and fun. We're committed to seeing the unique contribution of each team member, to respect diversity, work with strengths, invest in professional development and provide a safe workplace.

One thing's for sure: no matter the career path you follow at Possability, you'll meet some amazing people. And the connections you make might just be life changing.
